Ruby Trial Jury May Be Picked Today

2 More Persons
Needed To Fill
Panel in Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby's murder trial goes into another special weekend session today, still lacking two of the required 12 jurors to sit in judgment on him.

Prosecution and defense lawyers alike said they expect to complete the jury today.

All the courtroom principals—Judge Joe B. Brown and the opposing attorneys—had hoped to avoid a second Saturday session.

The historic trial began Feb. 17. Brown called a Saturday hearing last week, attempting to speed up selection of a jury. At the start of today's session, 126 persons had been examined to find the eight men and two women now sworn in.

Four factors account mainly for the slow progress:

1. It is a hard-fought case. Attorneys question every person for the jury, probe for every detail, the least shading of opinion, that might indicate he is favorable or unfavorable to Ruby.

2. A large number of prospects, 48 before the opening of today's session, said they oppose the death penalty.

3. Another 43 said they have fixed opinions about the case.

4. Attorneys struggled to escape using the allotted 15 peremptory challenges. A peremptory challenge permits dismissal of a jury candidate without stating a reason. Thus, when questioning a candidate they considered unfavorable to them, the attorneys spend hours trying to pry out some admission that would disqualify him "for cause"—such as having a fixed opinion.

In Austin Friday, Ruby's attorneys for the second time asked the Texas Supreme Court whether persons who saw Ruby shoot Lee Harvey Oswald on television are disqualified as jurors.

Earlier, the court had said it would not consider the request, but attorney William Vander-creek asked for a rehearing. The court could consider it as early as Monday.

Ruby faces a maximum penalty of death in the electric chair on the charge of murdering Oswald, Nov. 24. Oswald had been accused of assassinating President John F. Kennedy in Dallas.

Ruby's defense will be based on temporary insanity.

The 10th juror, accepted Friday, is J. Waymon Rose, 40. He is a former U.S. Navy pilot, now a furniture salesman.

Racial Mixing Urged by Mayor

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Mayor Arthur J. Holland has made his move into a century-old house in a racially mixed neighborhood and is now looking hopefully for some of his fellow citizens to join him in bucking the social tide.

Holland, his wife, Betty, and their little daughter, Cynthia, 10 months, moved into their new home Friday, while about 75 of their neighbors, both Negro and white, watched from across the street.

The house, purchased for $7,000, is one of a row of old houses that were fashionable but are beginning to deteriorate. Holland is having $10,000 worth of work done on his house, including installation of new plumbing, heating and electrical systems.

Canned Kangaroo Meat Is Banned in Germany

BONN, Germany (AP)—The West German Parliament banned the sale of canned kangaroo meat Friday but it approved continued sale of canned kangaroo tail soup—a favorite delicacy here.

The bill said some kangaroo meat had been found to contain salmonella, a microscopic growth, and infections had been caused by it.

U.S. Ponders Viet Nam, But Worries about Laos

HONOLULU (AP) — The top brass in the U.S. Pacific command talk a lot about the Communist threat in Viet Nam. Actually, they are more worried about developments in neighboring Laos.

In the strategy rooms in Hawaii, home of the U.S. military command for the Pacific and Far East, there is increasing concern over the continued gains of the Pathet Lao—the Laotian Communists—at the expense of the small Indochinese nation's right-wing and neutral factions.

U.S. military men accuse the Pathet Lao, aided by Communist North Viet Nam, of daily violations of the 1961 Geneva agreement which paved the way for a coalition government and guaranteed Laotian neutrality.

These Pathet Lao military gains have given the Communists control of important routes leading into Viet Nam. Thus the North Vietnamese Reds have ready supply lines to their guerrilla units in South Viet Nam.

One U.S. military man called Laos "the shakiest problem in Asia."

Laos, however, is just one of the headaches for Adm. U. S. Grant Sharp when he becomes U. S. Pacific military commander this spring. Sharp, commander in chief of the U. S. Pacific Fleet, was officially named Friday as successor to Adm. Harry D. Felt, retiring as Pacific commander.

While Laos momentarily heads the list, Sharp will have to wrestle with Viet Nam and other possible trouble spots in his huge command.

In Viet Nam U. S. military men have found evidence in the new government's activities to give them some confidence.

Optimism, however, is a word seldom heard about Viet Nam in military circles here.

Whiz Kids Keep Their Hobbies Alive

WASHINGTON (AP) — This year's top scientific whiz kids are 40 versatile teen-agers whose outside interests run from weightlifting to composing music.

For their work in mathematics, biochemistry, physics and psychology, the 30 boys and 10 girls have been named finalists in the annual Westinghouse science talent search.

They are demonstrating their exhibits this weekend prior to Monday night's announcement of five top scholarship winners.

The variety of activities of the 40 dispel the idea that teen age brilliance is among the bookworms and loners.

To wit:
When Henry Jaffin, 17, of Chevy Chase, Md., isn't studying anticancer chemicals, he goes in for bicycling and weightlifting.

And Robert Bowen, 16, of Nevada, Calif., is a mathematician who couldn't find any math courses to take in high school because he'd mastered them all while still in grammar school. He also plays varsity basketball.

The composer in the group is Amory B. Levins, 16, of Amherst, Mass. He has built an instrument for atomic research for only $50 and says it matches the performance of commercial devices costing $20,000.

$30 Million Housing Plan OK'd for Mexico
MEXICO CITY (AP)—Papers were signed Friday granting Mexico $30 million dollars in loans to launch an ambitious low-cost housing program.

The loans, channeled through the Alliance for Progress, came from the Agency for International Development which put up $20 million and the Inter-American Development Bank which advanced $10 million.

LBJ Reveals Newest Super Jet Aircraft

Tight Security Put Around LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tip that a Cuban suicide pilot might try to ram President Johnson's jet transport reportedly was the reason for the wartime-type security surrounding the chief executive's Florida trip this week.

Neither the White House nor the Secret Service would comment on the report, published Friday night by The Miami Herald. Johnson was almost certain to be asked about the matter at his news conference today.

Without question, the security measures imposed during Johnson's 16-hour Florida visit suggested there was official concern about the safety of the President while in the air.

The Herald, in a story by Gene Miller, said the Secret Service had received a tip, apparently about a week ago, that a suicide pilot might try to ram Johnson's plane or that a Cuba-based missile might be aimed at the big jet.

According to the newspaper the Secret Service considered these possibilities highly unlikely. However, it was said that officials decided to take no chances.

Among the security measures that seemed to lend credence to the reported concern about a possible aerial assassination attempt were:

1. Johnson did not fly to Florida on his own easily identified Boeing 707 jet. Instead he boarded one of a fleet of executive jets operated by the Air Force. Newsmen were told the President's plane was being overhauled.

2. All numerical markings were removed from the plane used by Johnson, as well as from two identical planes that accompanied him.

3. Whereas two transports normally are used on presidential flights—one as a backup craft available in an emergency—three were flown to Florida. The aim could have been to reduce the odds that any pilot on a suicide mission would find his target.

4. No advance announcement was made of the arrival time for any of Johnson's stops, nor for his departures. Sometimes even his destination was kept secret until he was aloft.

5. Johnson's jet dropped him at West Palm Beach, 67 miles north of Miami Beach. He completed the trip by helicopter.

Sinatra Jr. Says 'Hoax' Claim Costly

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Frank Sinatra Jr. says defense accusations that his alleged kidnapping was a publicity hoax have cast doubt on his integrity and forced him to cancel an engagement in Paris.

The singer, 20, made his remarks Friday at an impromptu news conference after his dismissal as a witness in the trial of three men accused of kidnapping him.

On trial are Barry Keenan, 23; Joseph Amsler, 23; and John Irwin, 42. They are accused of abducting the young singer from a Lake Tahoe motel last Dec. 8. Sinatra was released 56 hours later near his mother's Bel-Air home after his father had paid $240,000 ransom.

Yo Jo Sinatra said the cancellation in Paris had come during his recent European tour. "Those people over there apparently didn't believe the kidnapping story," he said.

"The seeds of doubt have been sown on my integrity and guts and will stay with me for the rest of my life," he added.

Asked why he had cooperated with his abductors, Sinatra replied: "I didn't want to get killed."

Sinatra Jr.'s appearance in court Friday lasted only 20 minutes.

2,000 Mph. Plane Now Under Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson revealed today the existence of a new U.S. super jet fighter plane "that far exceeds the performance of any other aircraft in use in the world today."

The President, in his first televised news conference, said the new long range interceptor was being revealed at this time so that its flight testing and final phases of development could proceed in orderly fashion.

He said the program was set up in secret in 1959, with Lockheed Aircraft in charge of the program. The engine was built by Pratt and Whitney. He said, while Hughes Aircraft developed the fire control and missile system.

Johnson gave no details of the aircraft's performance, except to say that it flies at speeds in excess of 2,000 miles an hour and performs at altitudes of up to 70,000 feet.

One key to the development of this plane, which flies at times at three times the speed of sound, is a new process of fabrication with titanium metal which successfully resists the extremely high temperatures resulting from supersonic flight, Johnson said.

The problems solved in developing this jet fighter, Johnson said, will assist in development of the supersonic air liner.

Johnson opened the news conference with the announcement of a list of high-level government appointments.

Heading that list was the selection of William P. Bundy for the key post of assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs.

Bundy, older brother of presidential adviser McGeorge Bundy, moves from the Pentagon where he has been assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs. In the new post he succeeds Roger Hillsman whose resignation was announced Tuesday.

Johnson said he is moving John McNaughton, the Pentagon's present general counsel, to the job Bundy now holds.

In another nomination affecting the Defense Department, Johnson picked Daniel Lueva, an official of the California state government, to fill a vacancy as assistant secretary of the army.

Mrs. Frankie M. Freeman of St. Louis, Johnson said, has been named to the Civil Rights Commission. He described her as a distinguished Missouri lawyer, formerly an assistant state attorney general.

Indiana's May Primary Banned by Court Order

BRAZIL, Ind. (AP) — Indiana's May 5 primary election was prohibited under terms of a temporary order issued today by a judge forbidding the state election board to take further action under a newly validated reapportionment law.

Action Added to Prayer Helps Woman in Wreck

WILLITS, Calif. (AP)—Faith deserves help, says Myrtle Scott, 50, a minister's wife who agonizingly crawled up a 350-foot embankment after a freezing night near a dead man and a wrecked car.

"I don't believe in praying without action, and I did both," the seriously injured real estate saleswoman from Santa Rosa, Calif., recalled from her hospital bed as she looked back on her survival ordeal.

"I remember being so tired," she said. "What a vast wilderness that is. I thought I was going to pass out and roll all the way back down, but I didn't."

"If there's only one thing to be done in a situation like this, then you know you have to do it."

She and her employer, Harvey Lee Wells, 68, Santa Rosa, were eastbound on State Highway 20 in mountainous timber country at about 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

About 15 miles east of here Wells stopped to check a car rattle.

He soon restarted the engine but forgot the gears were in reverse. The car shot backwards over the embankment.

The California Highway Patrol believes Mrs. Scott went through the windshield, but she remembers only finding herself near the base of the embankment, held by a clump of brush from rolling further.

"Where are we? Where are we?" she yelled. "Harvey—Harvey."

She got no answer from the area of the nearby still-burning headlights and correctly assumed Wells was dead.

With broken ribs, a dislocated right elbow, concussion and numerous cuts and scrapes, she could hardly move—not even enough to fasten her quilted jacket for protection against 32-degree cold.

Through the night she saw lights of cars up on the highway and thought, "Surely, they must see me." They didn't.

After dawn she began the painful crawl from brush clump to brush clump, inching a bit higher each time.

After several hours she reached the brink of the road. Three truck drivers quickly came to her aid.

At a hospital here a few hours later she was pronounced in relatively good condition—serious but not critical—and talked freely of her ordeal.

Billboard License Idea Under Study
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Legislation to license all billboards in Ohio is under study in the war to make major highways sign-free, Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe disclosed today.

He said preliminary drafts of such a proposal have been made by an unidentified lawmaker considering introduction of a bill in the 1965 General Assembly.

The attorney general expressed belief that the state has authority to control the billboard industry under its police powers.

"I believe it would be popular to do so," he asserted. Saxbe added that the governor has been informed of the development.

Under the proposal considered the state would charge a fee for all billboard licenses, according to size and location. A state law would pre-empt any local licensing, it was explained.

Revenues could be used for beautification or other highway purposes but the licensing law would be designed primarily for regulation.

The state has been at odds with billboard concerns in recent years in its program to keep main highways clear of signs.

Highway officials said Ohio is anxious to qualify for a federal bonus granted for sign-free roads. The state could receive approximately $10 million in bonus money, it is estimated.

Glenn Awaits His Verdict From Hospital

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Doctors at Grant Hospital were facing a medical decision today which affects the retirement of Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. from the Marine Corps and his subsequent political activity.

The physicians set a noon deadline for themselves to say "Yes," Glenn can leave the hospital, be retired from the military Sunday and set a political pace according to his recuperation.

Or, "No," he must remain a patient, deferring his retirement for another month and postponing his participation in the race for the Democratic U. S. senatorial nomination in Ohio. Marine regulations cancel retirement orders if the officer is in the hospital on the day they are to take effect. The orders can be effective only on the first of each month.

Glenn, first American to orbit the earth, has been in the hospital since Wednesday with a mild brain concussion he received when he fell in the bathroom of his apartment here. He struck his head on the bathtub.

He has shown improvement and was upgraded from "fair" to "satisfactory" condition Friday. However, he continued to have slight dizzy spells and some pain in moving.

Sinatra Jr. Says 'Hoax' Claim Costly

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Frank Sinatra Jr. says defense accusations that his alleged kidnapping was a publicity hoax have cast doubt on his integrity and forced him to cancel an engagement in Paris.

The singer, 20, made his remarks Friday at an impromptu news conference after his dismissal as a witness in the trial of three men accused of kidnapping him.

On trial are Barry Keenan, 23; Joseph Amsler, 23; and John Irwin, 42. They are accused of abducting the young singer from a Lake Tahoe motel last Dec. 8. Sinatra was released 56 hours later near his mother's Bel-Air home after his father had paid $240,000 ransom.

Sinatra Jr.'s appearance in court Friday lasted only 20 minutes.

Heading that list was the selection of William P. Bundy for the key post of assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs.

Bundy, older brother of presidential adviser McGeorge Bundy, moves from the Pentagon where he has been assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs. In the new post he succeeds Roger Hillsman whose resignation was announced Tuesday.

Johnson said he is moving John McNaughton, the Pentagon's present general counsel, to the job Bundy now holds.

In another nomination affecting the Defense Department, Johnson picked Daniel Lueva, no, an official of the California state government, to fill a vacancy as assistant secretary of the army.

Mrs. Frankie M. Freeman of St. Louis, Johnson said, has been named to the Civil Rights Commission. He described her as a distinguished Missouri lawyer, formerly an assistant state attorney general.

Action Added to Prayer Helps Woman in Wreck

WILLITS, Calif. (AP)—Faith deserves help, says Myrtle Scott, 50, a minister's wife who agonizingly crawled up a 350-foot embankment after a freezing night near a dead man and a wrecked car.

"I don't believe in praying without action, and I did both," the seriously injured real estate saleswoman from Santa Rosa, Calif., recalled from her hospital bed as she looked back on her survival ordeal.

"I remember being so tired," she said. "What a vast wilderness that is. I thought I was going to pass out and roll all the way back down, but I didn't."

"If there's only one thing to be done in a situation like this, then you know you have to do it."

She and her employer, Harvey Lee Wells, 68, Santa Rosa, were eastbound on State Highway 20 in mountainous timber country at about 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

About 15 miles east of here Wells stopped to check a car rattle.

He soon restarted the engine but forgot the gears were in reverse. The car shot backwards over the embankment.

The California Highway Patrol believes Mrs. Scott went through the windshield, but she remembers only finding herself near the base of the embankment, held by a clump of brush from rolling further.

"Where are we? Where are we?" she yelled. "Harvey—Harvey."

She got no answer from the area of the nearby still-burning headlights and correctly assumed Wells was dead.

With broken ribs, a dislocated right elbow, concussion and numerous cuts and scrapes, she could hardly move—not even enough to fasten her quilted jacket for protection against 32-degree cold.

Through the night she saw lights of cars up on the highway and thought, "Surely, they must see me." They didn't.

After dawn she began the painful crawl from brush clump to brush clump, inching a bit higher each time.

After several hours she reached the brink of the road. Three truck drivers quickly came to her aid.

At a hospital here a few hours later she was pronounced in relatively good condition—serious but not critical—and talked freely of her ordeal.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Legislation to license all billboards in Ohio is under study in the war to make major highways sign-free, Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe disclosed today.

He said preliminary drafts of such a proposal have been made by an unidentified lawmaker considering introduction of a bill in the 1965 General Assembly.

The attorney general expressed belief that the state has authority to control the billboard industry under its police powers.

"I believe it would be popular to do so," he asserted. Saxbe added that the governor has been informed of the development.

Under the proposal considered the state would charge a fee for all billboard licenses, according to size and location. A state law would pre-empt any local licensing, it was explained.

Revenues could be used for beautification or other highway purposes but the licensing law would be designed primarily for regulation.

The state has been at odds with billboard concerns in recent years in its program to keep main highways clear of signs.

Highway officials said Ohio is anxious to qualify for a federal bonus granted for sign-free roads. The state could receive approximately $10 million in bonus money, it is estimated.

Dwarf Trees Should Be Virus Free

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,

If you're going to buy dwarf peach, plum or cherry trees this spring, make sure they are certified as virus-free.

Some varieties of these trees have caused difficulties because the rootstocks used in their propagation were infected with virus, according to Eldon Banta, Ohio State University Extension fruit specialist.

Several varieties are now available from nurseries. Some have proved to be quite satisfactory.

One of these is the Western Sand Cherry rootstock used for dwarfing peach, cherry and plum trees. It is a dwarf tree itself — in fact in could be considered a shrub. Most varieties do quite well on this rootstock if kept free of virus infection.

STONE FRUIT varieties grown on the Western Sand Cherry rootstock will often flower the year after budding in the nursery, says Banta. Two-year-old trees have been known to bear 8 to 10 average-sized fruits. Mature trees will grow to be only 3 to 5 feet tall and 5 to 6 feet in width, and may produce up to a bushel of good sized peaches.

It is difficult to predict exactly what size mature trees will be. This varies with the type of fruit as well as the variety propagated on the dwarfing rootstock. Varieties of sweet cherries will produce larger trees than will varieties of peaches or plums or sour cherries. In general, the mature trees, 10 years and older, will be about one fourth the size of the standard sized tree of a given variety, says the specialist.

Pruning is a dwarfing process, and the more severe the pruning operation the more dwarfing the effect on the tree. In the past, pruning has been a suitable practice for dwarfing peach and other stone fruit trees where small trees were desired.

Now, with smaller lots around many modern homes, it may be more desirable to plant varieties of stone fruits on dwarfing rootstocks.

Station Scientist To Name Newly Discovered Parasite

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

A scientist at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station has described and named a new mite parasite of cattle.

Donald E. Johnston, curator of the Station's Institution of Acarology, will make the identification and official description, including Latin name, for the newly discovered parasite.

Johnston has been making official identification of all types of mites for United States Department of Agriculture and other scientists on a world-wide basis for several years. This, however, is the first new parasite of cattle to be discovered in the memory of Station scientists concerned with the field.

As is true with the description of any new species, Johnston's description and name will become a reference among scientists of the world.

THE NEW MITE, which lives in the upper layers of skin of cattle, was discovered from specimens found in skin scrapings of a Hereford full in New Mexico. Scientists of the Animal Disease Eradication Division of the USDA, at Albuquerque, N.M., forwarded sample material containing the mite to Johnston who is a specialist in his field of acarology.

Johnston describes the pest as an itch mite of the genus Psorogates and says it is a new species similar to the sheep mite which was found in this country by scientists at the Ohio Station in the early 1950's.

Effect of the mite on cattle is as yet undetermined. In the first case where the mite was found in New Mexico, the Hereford bull appeared to have some lesions associated with the mite injury.

The Ohio Station's Institute of Acarology is a part of the Department of Zoology and Entomology. It contains the most complete collection of mites in the Western Hemisphere.

The Institute was established at Duke University in 1951 and later transferred to the University of Maryland. It was moved to the Ohio Station in 1961, largely through the efforts of Dr. George W. Wharton when he was appointed head of the Station's department of zoology and entomology. Dr. Wharton is director of the Institute.

A special school of acarology, largely for the benefit of scientists who are interested in post-doctoral work, is held each summer at The Ohio State University. It is taught by three Ohio scientists, Dr. Wharton, Johnston and Dr. W. Knulle, plus four visiting lecturers from the USDA and other universities.

The present research program of the Institute at the Station includes classification, comparative anatomy and psychology of mites.

Light, bright, shiny and airy are the words used to describe this Spring's shoe fashions. The toes are tapered ovals, heels are lower and straighter and set farther back on the shoe. Many shoes feature cut-out sides or backs, and lightweight shells. Also featured are shiny patent and bright-light colors.

Although fashion and color are good selling points, be sure to check the fit carefully to make sure these new shoes look right and feel right on your feet.

In checking fit, remember that the foot has four dimensions: length, width, depth and shape. Feet should be measured each time before buying shoes because at least one of these dimensions changes every four months for people between the ages of 12 and 18. A look at old shoes will help determine what changes are needed in new ones.

If old shoes show wear at the toes or the inside sole has worn "pockets" for toes, you need a longer shoe. There's only 1-6 inch difference between numbered sizes (size 8 is 1-6 inch longer than size 7½), but one size can make a great deal of difference in looks and comfort.

If the uppers (the parts above the soles) of old shoes extend over the soles, you're ready for the next width. Width is designated by letters (AAAAA to EEEEE, or M for medium, N for narrow, and S for slim). The widest part of the shoe should be over the first joint of the big toe. The heel should fit snugly. Combination widths are available.

able. For example, you might take a B width with an AA heel.

These are determined by the last (the wooden form on which the shoe was made.) If there are bumps that outline your toes on the uppers of your old shoes, you need a deeper last. Wiggle your toes to check depth. They should be able to move freely.

Your old shoes may be puckered or wrinkled behind the ball of the foot along the arch. Or, they may be greatly out of shape. If so, the shape of the last is wrong, and the shoes aren't long enough from ball to heel. The proportion of the shoe from ball to heel and ball to toes differs from last to last. To check the shape, try on shoes standing up. Your foot should rest on the bottom of the shoe, with weight equally distributed between ball and heel.

Always check the appearance of shoes in a mirror. Walk in them, noting (in addition to the way they feel): fit at heel (they should not slip), fit at sides (they should lie smoothly), fit at instep (there should be no bulge), toes (they should not turn up).

Determine the Need of your Soils and Crops with a Soil Test

Doctors never prescribe medicine without making a diagnosis first. The same principle can be applied in treating your soil. Making a soil test will tell you what plant food elements are low — what Smith-Douglass fertilizer is needed to bring the supply of plant food into proper balance for high crop yields.

We are ready to assist you with a soil test, and make recommendations which will enable you to apply Smith-Douglass fertilizer economically, to produce more profitable crops.

Homemaker News

Light, bright, shiny and airy are the words used to describe this Spring's shoe fashions. The toes are tapered ovals, heels are lower and straighter and set farther back on the shoe. Many shoes feature cut-out sides or backs, and lightweight shells. Also featured are shiny patent and bright-light colors.

Although fashion and color are good selling points, be sure to check the fit carefully to make sure these new shoes look right and feel right on your feet.

In checking fit, remember that the foot has four dimensions: length, width, depth and shape. Feet should be measured each time before buying shoes because at least one of these dimensions changes every four months for people between the ages of 12 and 18. A look at old shoes will help determine what changes are needed in new ones.

If old shoes show wear at the toes or the inside sole has worn "pockets" for toes, you need a longer shoe. There's only 1-6 inch difference between numbered sizes (size 8 is 1-6 inch longer than size 7½), but one size can make a great deal of difference in looks and comfort.

If the uppers (the parts above the soles) of old shoes extend over the soles, you're ready for the next width. Width is designated by letters (AAAAA to EEEEE, or M for medium, N for narrow, and S for slim). The widest part of the shoe should be over the first joint of the big toe. The heel should fit snugly. Combination widths are available.

able. For example, you might take a B width with an AA heel.

These are determined by the last (the wooden form on which the shoe was made.) If there are bumps that outline your toes on the uppers of your old shoes, you need a deeper last. Wiggle your toes to check depth. They should be able to move freely.

Your old shoes may be puckered or wrinkled behind the ball of the foot along the arch. Or they may be greatly out of shape. If so, the shape of the last is wrong, and the shoes aren't long enough from ball to heel. The proportion of the shoe from ball to heel and ball to toes differs from last to last. To check the shape, try on shoes standing up. Your foot should rest on the bottom of the shoe, with weight equally distributed between ball and heel.

Always check the appearance of shoes in a mirror. Walk in them, noting (in addition to the way they feel): fit at heel (they should not slip), fit at sides (they should lie smoothly), fit at instep (there should be no bulge), toes (they should not turn up).

Farm Facts . .

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture
IF YOU DECIDE to buy garden seed from a seed catalogue, order as soon as possible to insure getting the seed in time to plant in the spring, advise Ohio State University Extension floriculturists.

THE MOST important single item a farmer can consider in crop production is the seed he plants.

OHIO HAS an outstanding reputation for producing high quality soft red winter wheat. This wheat is superior for milling cake and cracker flours.

WINTER RYE is the most winter-hardy of small grains. It is especially adapted to sandy or muck soil. Rye is used mainly for cover crops, late fall and early spring pastures, or for a green manure crop in Ohio.

MANY OF THE plant pests which damage crops and ornamentals in the U. S. have been carried here by ships and planes.

ELECTRONIC DATA processing is opening up new frontiers for farmers in many phases of farm production and management.

CAPITAL investment for many Ohio farm families ranges from $50,000 to more than $150,000, according to Ohio State University Extension economists.

FARMERS use more than five million tons of steel annually, more than seven per cent of the total U. S. production — enough to make almost five million compact cars.

"Where the Desire to Serve Always Prevails"

Recommended Oat Varieties Rated Consistently Good

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

The practice of seeding recommended spring oat varieties has proven to be consistent in producing high yields, combined with good bushel weight, straw strength, disease resistance and grain quality.

In recent years many new varieties have been introduced and recommended. These have been carefully evaluated by adaptation and superiority of performance tests under Ohio conditions.

It is very important that farmers purchase high quality seed of a recommended variety. Attention should be given to adequate fertilization, careful preparation tion of a weed-free seed bed and to seed as early in the spring as possible.

Clarion, Clintland 60, Dodge, Goodfield, Putnam 61 and Rodney varieties are recommended.

CLARION produces good, clean, plump, yellow kernels with good straw strength.

Speeder, Late In Court, Gets Himself Married

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Hiram Woolridge of Akron showed up late in traffic court to pay a $10 speeding ticket—and got married.

The hurrying bridegroom was late to court this week because he stopped to pick up a wedding license. Woolridge and Lucille his bride-to-be, planned to go to a minister for a marriage ceremony after his court appearance.

Judge William Morris, who fined Woolridge $10 and costs, learned of the couple's plans and invited them into his private chambers where he performed the ceremony.

He suspended $5 of the fine as a wedding gift.

Clintland 60 and Dodge are medium early varieties, both have good straw strength and good bushel weight.

Goodfield is the shortest strawed of all of the oat varieties. Goodfield is specifically adapted to high fertility soils. Putnam 61 is relatively new and has excellent resistance to oat smuts and crown and stem rusts. Rodney oats are specifically recommended for silage or green-chop use. Rodney is tall, late and high yielding.

Clintland 60 yielded best during trials conducted in Pickaway County during 1963. The order of yield rank for all varieties way County during 1963. The Putnam 61, Goodfield, and the lowest yield, by 10 bushels, was Rodney.

Variety samples are again being provided by the Ohio Seed Growers for variety comparisons. Farmers desiring to cooperate with a variety comparison may contact the Extension office.

Grandma OK As Freshman

Even Her Mother Roots for Degree

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—A 65-year-old freshman, urged on by her mother, children and grandchildren, has cleared the first major hurdle on her way toward a college degree.

Mrs. Alfred J. Goldberg of nearby Pawtucket is well into her second semester at Roger Williams Junior College, having passed all of her first term courses.

"It's difficult," she said, "but I passed with all C's."

Mrs. Goldberg had been out of school 50 years when she started classes at the college last fall.

"I'm an old gal and I know it," she said. "I was hesitant about the whole thing. 'How would the young people take it?' I wondered."

Now, she said, "I can't say I'm one of the kids, but I do feel part of the school, just as they do."

Urging Mrs. Goldberg on is her mother Mrs. Abraham Medoff, 89, of Woonsocket.

Also encouraging her are her two daughters, her three brothers, her two sisters and six grandchildren.

Mrs. Goldberg came to the United States from Russia as a little girl and finished elementary school in Woonsocket during the depression which preceded World War I. After taking courses at a secretarial school she went to work.

Mrs. Goldberg and her late husband operated a wholesale and retail textile store in Providence for many years.

She wants to specialize in psychology and sociology in order to take up volunteer social work.

Since Last Saturday . . .

Events that occurred in the Circleville and Pickaway County area since last Saturday were primarily of a progressive nature — although many local athletic boosters mourned the CHS Tigers' defeat by Columbus Central in the Class AA District basketball tournament.

Estimates of a state department statistical report listed a population increase of 2,620 persons in Pickaway County since the 1960 census. According to a report made by the Area Chamber of Commerce last year, Circleville's population is approximately 11,750.

Local retailers and merchants, who make the scene every day, gained a little extra popularity last weekend with special bargains and sales offered in celebration of George Washington's Birthday.

Another birthday observed this week was the 59th anniversary of the founding of Rotary, a world-wide service organization of business and professional men. The local unit, with a membership of 80, commemorated the anniversary by paying tribute to all past presidents of the Circleville club.

In politics, all young Democrats in the county were invited to an organizational meeting of a Pickaway County Young Democrats Club Monday evening at the Fairgrounds. About 50 turned out for the first meeting. The Democrats, perhaps dragging their feet a bit until now, say they plan to make every effort to become as active as the Young Republicans Club that has been in operation here for a number of years.

Chamber of Commerce officials continued to put in many extra hours in preparation for the upcoming Business-Industrial-Education Day. Businessmen and Chamber workers have already put a lot of work into the program aimed at a better understanding between those participating. Thirty-four business, industry and service groups will take part in the day-long program on Mar. 13.

Volunteer workers who contributed their time and energies to the 1964 Heart Fund Drive are to be commended for the end results. Jack Linton, chairman, expressed his gratitude to many volunteers who canvassed door-to-door asking for donations and to the generous public that pushed total collections above last year's. Plans are now under way for the Easter Seal campaign, with proceeds earmarked to aid crippled children and adults.

Promotions were announced this week for two local industry employees. Ralph B. May Jr. and C. E. Dinkler were named manager of engineering and tool engineer respectively at Lincoln Molded Plastics, Inc.

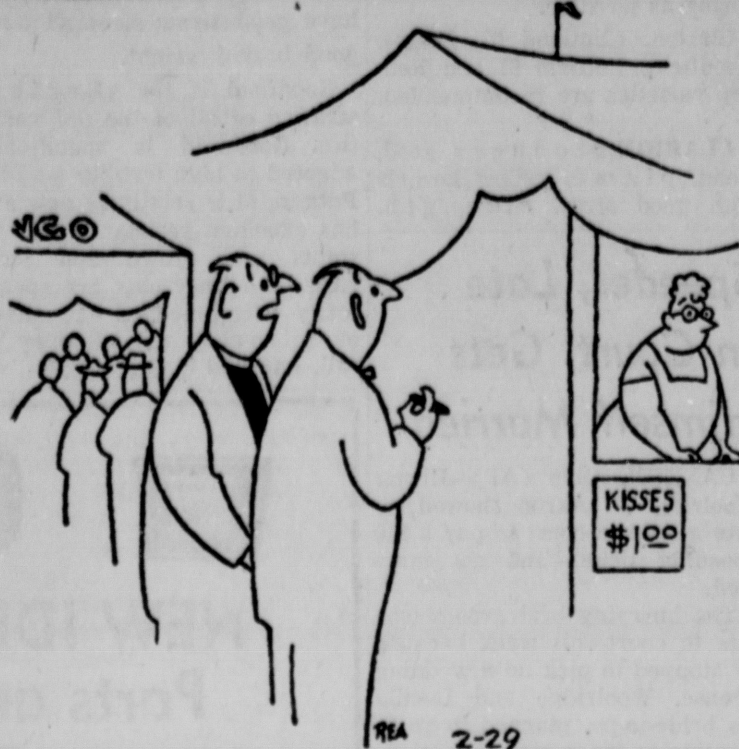

Swindlers apparently were back in the area this week, according to a sheriff's department report. A county resident reported she paid $72 for chimney repairs to three men who posed as government flue inspectors. As long as there are men who refuse to work for a living, innocent people will be prey to their criminal schemes. The often-repeated warning of investigating suspicious characters, whether they claim to be government representatives or household repairmen, should be heeded in order to prevent loss to innocent persons.

Another young citizen spoke out this week wondering why Circleville doesn't have a movie house. The youth, posing a question that has been asked countless times, presented his thoughts in a "Letter to the Editor" in Wednesday's edition. Townspeople, young and old alike, have expressed need for a theater since the Grand was torn down in the summer of 1962. Many suggestions have been offered, but none to date has produced results. A theater operation is a business. And for a business to prosper it must have support. . . in this particular case "lots of it."

Good news this week for Circleville-Williamsport residents was General Telephone Company's announcement that toll-free calls will go into effect in 1965 as part of its extended area service program.

A final anniversary observance (not celebrated) this past week was the 51st birthday of the 16th amendment to the constitution. . . The amendment, which went into effect Feb. 25, 113, allowed Congress to levy and collect income taxes.

A POIGNANT tableaux was revealed in Yellowstone National Park one day this summer: a father with four unruly kids in tow gazing pensively at a sign reading, "Deposit your litter here." The father sighed, and confided to a bystander, "Don't think I'm not tempted!"

A restless cub scout, teasing his six-year-old brother, accidentally pushed him off a boat dock into the lake. He rushed home to his mother in tears and explained to her, "I did my best to give Malcolm artificial respiration after I pulled him out of the lake—but he kept jumping up and running away."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

The wanton waste of lives by fire is indeed a paradox in an era so filled with medical and surgical advances.

A child safeguarded from the crippling devastation of polio, a life saved by heroic heart surgery, a cancer cured by cobalt radiotherapy—all these are testimonials to the status of modern medicine. These lives are often sustained by the efforts of many doctors, scientists and technicians who pool their knowledge and their unselfish devotion to the sick.

Yet these very same lives are sacrificed by carelessness and total disregard for the destructive death-dealing fire hazards that exist in their homes.

Families spend vast amounts of money for hospitals, medications and physicians in an effort to restore the health of a single member. Endless hours are graciously spent visiting patients in hospitals during their recuperative period. The time and cost are enormous.

Yet these same families rarely can be induced to inspect and remedy the fire risks that surround them and threaten their destiny.

The National Fire Protective Association, through hundreds of offices, has for half a century encouraged scientific improvements in fire prevention and fire protection.

In co-operation with national and local fire services, extensive educational campaigns have been organized to reduce the senseless waste of thousands of lives by preventable fires.

The home can be protected against fire by rigid adherence to a few of the safety rules. The Institute for Home Fire Safety suggests:

1. Keep matches in metal containers out of the reach of children.
2. To be absolutely safe, get into the habit of breaking or tearing the match in half before throwing it away. This will make you look at it and see whether the fire is out.
3. Use safety matches and check them for "after glow."
4. Discard paint-smeared fabrics and polishing cloths saturated in oil, or keep them in a metal container.
5. All cooking areas should be equipped with exhausts for the removal of grease fumes.
6. Rid the home of inflammable gasoline, kerosenes and fuel oils unless kept in approved safety cans.

7. Electrical appliances and outlets and wiring must meet the rigid rules of safety established by the underwriters Laboratories.

8. Provide ventilated air space around TV, radio and Hi-Fi equipment.

9. Keep fabrics away from lamp bulbs that may ignite them.

10. Only qualified electricians should install new circuits in the home to avoid overloading.

11. Replace damaged electric cords. Frayed, cracked cords may produce short circuits.

12. Smoking in bed is a leading cause of death by fire. Nobody ever expects to fall asleep while smoking—but how many people do?

Inspection of your own individual home will suggest many other safety precautions.

It is wise to consult with your local fire authorities and establish in advance exact means of escape from your home in the event of a fire. The dividends are great for health and security.

Poverty Claimed Local Issue

By John Chamberlain

When conservatives scoff at President Lyndon Johnson for taking up a crusade against poverty, they are making a tactical mistake. For it seemingly puts them into the camp of the hard-hearted, and the hard-hearted haven't won a big election in the United States in years. What the conservatives should do is to praise Johnson, for raising the issue of poverty, and then go on to explain why the problem must be tackled, not by grandiose federal plans, for regions extending over many states, but locally, on a town by town and plant by plant basis.

Any general federal plan for Appalachia, for example, must fail because the Pittsburgh area of Pennsylvania is one thing and the West Virginia and Kentucky soft coal fields are another, while the hard coal region of eastern Pennsylvania is still a third. The industrial woes of the Pittsburgh area have been beautifully analyzed by my friend Harold Ruttenberg, who, in his varied career, has been a statistician and organizer for the United Steelworkers Union and a money-making steelmaster and manufacturer of drilling equipment. In a devastating summary which he has just sent to me, Mr. Ruttenberg shows why the currently fetishistic process of industry-wide collective bargaining fails.

The inevitable result of "cosmic" bargaining is to strand and put out of business smaller, specialized companies which can neither afford to automate nor to move away. This snowballs the unemployment problem. The situation can hardly be improved by "returning" displaced workers, for what are they to be retrained for? A high-cost area does not create new businesses to absorb retrained workers. The retraining program is another classic example of cart-before-horse thinking.

The attempt by union and management "industry-wide" collective bargaining to apply a United State Steel Corporation formula to all steel companies wreaks havoc for smaller metal-working plants which cannot afford thirteen-week vacations, sabbaticals, expensive fringe benefits, and high overtime pay. It even hurts the less efficient divisions of U. S. Steel.

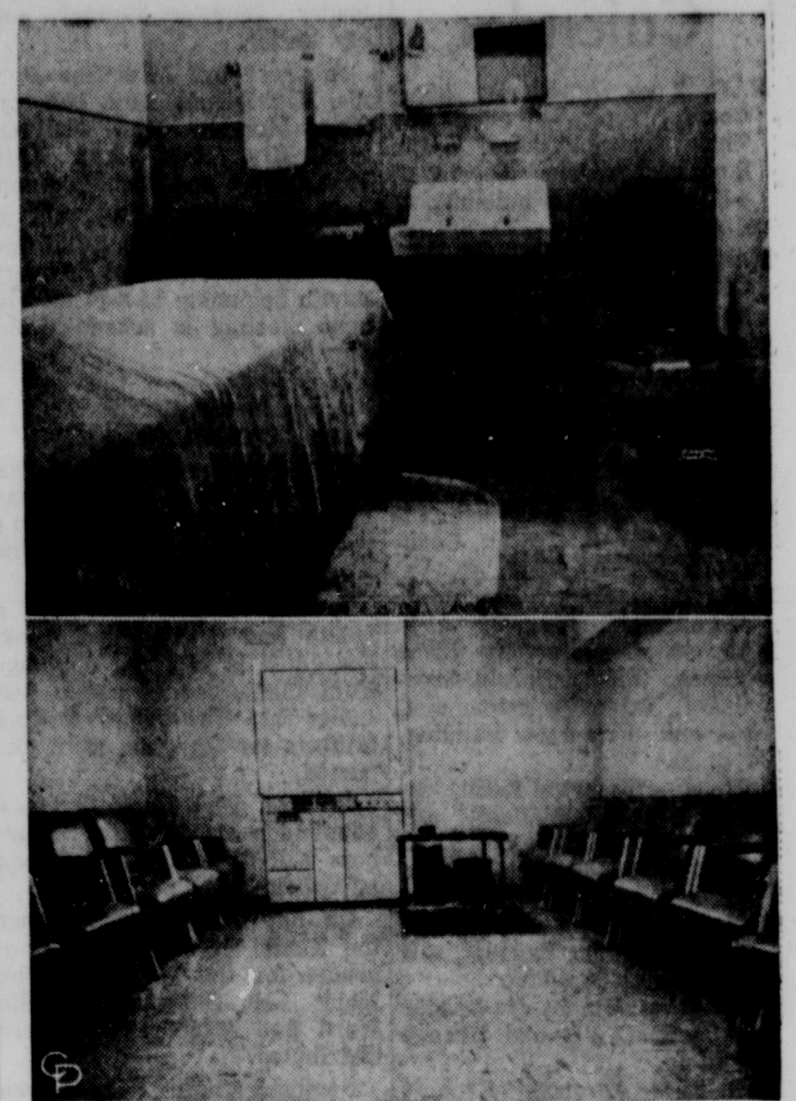

Going up and down the valleys of the Pittsburgh area, Mr. Ruttenberg has discovered that 80 metal-working plants once employing 40,000 people, have gone out of existence since the war. Some 10 million square feet of empty industrial buildings stand waiting for new tenants. Whole towns such as Donora have met with disaster because of union insistence on "stretch-out" work practices that are akin to railroad feather-bedding.

But management, says Mr. Ruttenberg, is often just as much to blame as labor, for it has failed to prove a sincere willingness to tackle the job of substituting plant-by-plant productivity formulas for overall union-management contracts.

Mr. Ruttenberg defines automation as a distortion of technological improvement that has been forced by "stretched-out costs." Companies resort to automation whenever good union men, with the consent of a management that wants no direct trouble with labor, contrive to run a plant operation below its "design capacity." Rather than run head-on into the union, management prefers to "redesign" capacity to get rid of men entirely. But this sort of thing runs into money, and employers who can't raise the capital for it often dodge the problem by moving from Pennsylvania to North Carolina or by selling out to "liquidation" companies and reinvesting their capital in government bonds.

Mr. Ruttenberg's recipe for saving the Pittsburgh area is to apply the new "Donora formula", which was spontaneously demanded by workers in the Donora area when U. S. Steel closed down many of its facilities in the town and moved out. The "Donora formula" is to take each plant as "a closed society of its own," to forget national "norms," and to negotiate wage-and-fringe-benefit demands on a productivity basis that accounts for the circumstances of the shop and the local community. Some plants have been saved by this approach; others, failing to get into the spirit of the "Donora formula," have simply stumbled into closing.

Poverty is a blight upon the nation. But Mr. Ruttenberg proves brilliantly that the cure of poverty is, more often than not, a purely local issue.

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

WHEN CRULLER WANTS TO SHOW OFF HIS NEW SHIRTS NIFTY CUFFS THEY DON'T SHOW AT ALL....

BUT WHEN HE HAPPENS TO WEAR A SHIRT WITH FRAYED CUFFS... WELL... YOU KNOW THE REST....

Since Last Saturday . . .

Events that occurred in the Circleville and Pickaway County area since last Saturday were primarily of a progressive nature — although many local athletic boosters mourned the CHS Tigers' defeat by Columbus Central in the Class AA District basketball tournament.

Estimates of a state department statistical report listed a population increase of 2,620 persons in Pickaway County since the 1960 census. According to a report made by the Area Chamber of Commerce last year, Circleville's population is approximately 11,750.

Local retailers and merchants, who make the scene every day, gained a little extra popularity last weekend with special bargains and sales offered in celebration of George Washington's Birthday.

Another birthday observed this week was the 59th anniversary of the founding of Rotary, a world-wide service organization of business and professional men. The local unit, with a membership of 80, commemorated the anniversary by paying tribute to all past presidents of the Circleville club.

In politics, all young Democrats in the county were invited to an organizational meeting of a Pickaway County Young Democrats Club Monday evening at the Fairgrounds. About 50 turned out for the first meeting. The Democrats, perhaps dragging their feet a bit until now, say they plan to make every effort to become as active as the Young Republicans Club that has been in operation here for a number of years.

Chamber of Commerce officials continued to put in many extra hours in preparation for the upcoming Business-Industrial-Education Day. Businessmen and Chamber workers have already put a lot of work into the program aimed at a better understanding between those participating. Thirty-four business, industry and service groups will take part in the day-long program on Mar. 13.

Volunteer workers who contributed their time and energies to the 1964 Heart Fund Drive are to be commended for the end results. Jack Linton, chairman, expressed his gratitude to many volunteers who canvassed door-to-door asking for donations and to the generous public that pushed total collections above last year's. Plans are now under way for the Easter Seal campaign, with proceeds earmarked to aid crippled children and adults.

Promotions were announced this week for two local industry employees. Ralph B. May Jr. and C. E. Dinkler were named manager of engineering and tool engineer respectively at Lincoln Molded Plastics, Inc.

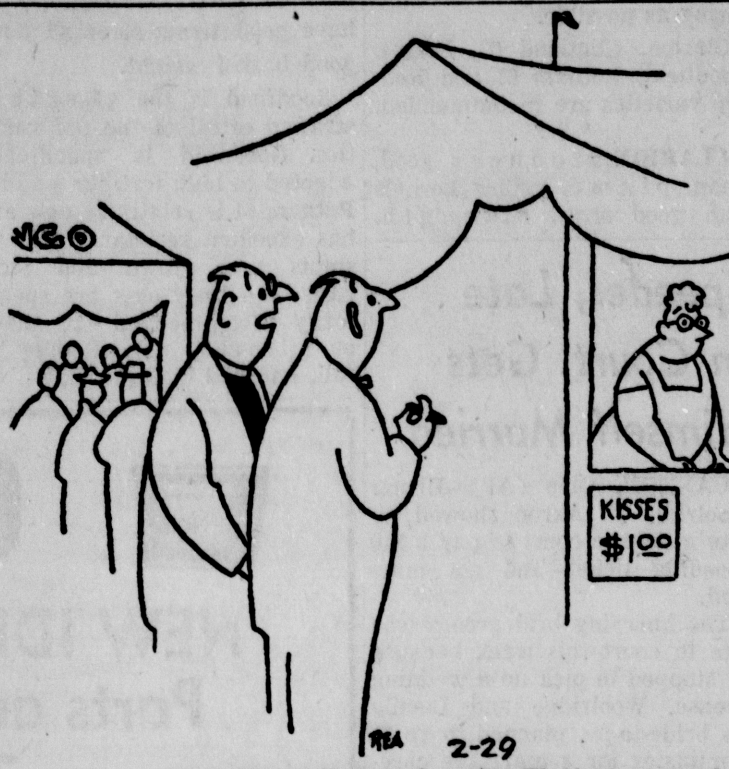

Swindlers apparently were back in the area this week, according to a sheriff's department report. A county resident reported she paid $72 for chimney repairs to three men who posed as government flue inspectors. As long as there are men who refuse to work for a living, innocent people will be prey to their criminal schemes. The often-repeated warning of investigating suspicious characters, whether they claim to be government representatives or household repairmen, should be heeded in order to prevent loss to innocent persons.

Another young citizen spoke out this week wondering why Circleville doesn't have a movie house. Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

CLAY-RUSSELL: Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., says heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay will be subject to "harassment, humiliation and insults such as he has never experienced" because of his segregationist views.

Speaking to the Senate Friday Russell quoted from interviews with Clay in which the new champion said he wanted to associate with his own race, would not picket or engage in demonstrations and opposes integration of the races.

"He will pay for this," said Russell, leader of the Southern senators opposed to civil rights legislation. "He will need a higher degree of courage than when he climbed into the ring with (former champion Sonny) Liston."

BAKER: The Senate Rules Committee has received word

that Edward Levinson, Las Vegas, Nev., hotel and gambling casino operator, would get in touch with it Monday and probably would testify shortly afterwards.

U. S. marshals have been searching for Levinson and Benjamin Sigelbaum, Miami, Fla., real estate operator, in connection with the committee's probe of the activities of Robert G. Baker, ex-secretary to the Senate Democratic majority.

Levinson and Sigelbaum have been described as financial backers of the Serv-U Corp., a vending machine company in which Baker has been called a major but unlisted stockholder.

The committee is investigating whether Baker engaged in any conflict-of-interest deals while serving as secretary to Senate Democrats, a post he quit under fire Oct. 7.

ROWAN: Carl T. Rowan, called "a man of intelligence, courage and integrity" by President Johnson, has taken over as director of the U.S. Information Agency.

Rowan, former ambassador to Finland, was sworn in Friday to succeed the ailing Edward R. Murrow. Rowan's wife and two sons, President Johnson and a large group of officials and friends attended the ceremony.

Rowan is the highest-ranking Negro in the government and the first to sit in regularly on Cabinet meetings and also meetings of the National Security Council.

CONNALLY-KENNEDY: Texas Gov. John B. Connally, who was wounded when President John F. Kennedy was assassinated, paid his first visit to Kennedy's grave Friday.

TAX CUT: The Internal Revenue Service says employers should apply the new, reduced withholding rates to any paychecks due on or after March 5, even if the pay period covered by the check began before the new tax cut bill became law last Wednesday.

THAT BIG TAX CUT—This was the gay scene in the White House as President Johnson signed the big tax cut bill. While he signs, daughter Lynda greets lawmakers (from left) Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La.; Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla.; Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark.

Youths Watch Medics Work

Would-Be Doctors Get Inside Look

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Selected high school pupils—both boys and girls—who are considering medicine as a career, can watch doctors at work in operating rooms and research labs at Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital.

The innovation is the idea of Dr. Victor P. Satinsky, who believes that "exposure to a career choice should be at the high school level"—even if, in some cases, it involves watching the birth of a baby.

The program for teen-agers is offered at the college and hospital for 10 weeks each summer. Satinsky is an associate professor of research on heart surgery at the hospital.

In the two years since it was introduced the program has proved highly successful.

Typical of the participants' reaction is the enthusiasm of Nancy Oriol, 17, a senior at Philadelphia High School for Girls.

She finds that "having a superior who talks to you as an equal is a great feeling. You can disagree if you want to, and sometimes you're even right!"

The program grew out of Satinsky's Saturday laboratory volunteer project.

The pupils would come in Saturday mornings, help around the lab, and learn to assist Satinsky in his research projects at Hahnemann.

He decided to expand the program as a summer experience after conducting additional research projects and including formal classroom lectures.

"The Hahnemann faculty was very cooperative," Satinsky recalls. "The college council set up the curriculum and practically all the department heads participated in the lectures."

After completing two summers pupils have been exposed to every subject medical students have in four years, Satinsky said, and they are taught by the medical school professors themselves.

Dramatic Actress Finds Her New Skill as Soprano

NEW YORK (AP)—Lee Remick, best known for screen glamor drama roles, is on the musical comedy stage now—to her own surprise.

"I'd never even sung in the shower before," she says of her new found soprano skill. "It's a marvelous feeling to discover ability you didn't suspect."

The titian-tressed actress unveils the big sound in "Anyone Can Whistle," which is scheduled for a Broadway premiere March 26 at the Majestic Theater.

"I'm not sure how my voice would be technically described," says Lee, "but it's loud and there'll be no chest mikes or other gadgets to help out."

Miss Remick gives main mention to two men for her switch to warbling: husband Bill Collieran, who is a television executive, and Herbert Greene, a teacher who in the past decade has helped many stars become Broadway vocalists.

"Bill's been after me for years and used to get furious with me for not trying to sing. Greene made me believe I could do it."

The young film star says also, "I couldn't have lived with myself if I had passed this show up—it's wild and unrelated to anything that's ever been written before." Which should bring joy to author-director Arthur Laurents and composer Stephen Sondheim.

Miss Remick was briefly on Broadway in "Be Your Age" in 1953 when she was 17. After that came three years of dancing and acting in stock troupes, followed by 10 Hollywood movies. "There have been a few nudges along the way for other stage work, but I ignored them."

"Anyone Can Whistle" entered her life last July. "When I heard it was going to have a lot of real singer-type music, I said, 'I love you all for thinking of me, but goodbye,'" she says.

By August she'd been persuaded to meet Greene.

"I walked into his studio with a large chip on my shoulder. He told me to sing. I said I never had and didn't know any songs. He said 'Everybody does. Ever hear "God Bless America"?' So that's what I did—and now I think I'd rather sing than anything else."

Sharing the limelight with Miss Remick are Angela Lansbury and Harry Guardino, also newcomers to the musical stage.

Perfect Timing

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—George L. Bott needed to add two bedrooms to his home when he took on the responsibility of raising the five children of his only son, killed in an automobile accident. So he took out a home improvement loan from the Genesee Merchants Bank and Trust Co.

His $1,500 note was returned before any payments were made, marked "Paid in Full", the bank's way of celebrating an installment-loan record. It was Bott's loan that sent the total over the $100 million mark in just four years.

Diploma First?

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Here's a proposal which probably will meet the approval of parents, but vociferous opposition from the younger set: Withhold drivers licenses from teen-agers until they graduate from high school.

The idea was advanced by Birmingham insurance man Liston A. Corcoran as a panel member at a meeting of the Alabama School Board Association. He blamed automobiles as a key reason for school drop-outs.

People can linger with a printed page: two minutes, five minutes, ten. They can come back to it again and again. They can compare one product with another. They can study styles, features,

Youths Watch Medics Work

Would-Be Doctors Get Inside Look

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Selected high school pupils—both boys and girls—who are considering medicine as a career, can watch doctors at work in operating rooms and research labs at Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital.

The innovation is the idea of Dr. Victor P. Satinsky, who believes that "exposure for a career choice should be at the high school level"—even if, in some cases, it involves watching the birth of a baby.

The program for teen-agers is offered at the college and hospital for 10 weeks each summer. Satinsky is an associate professor of research on heart surgery at the hospital.

In the two years since it was introduced the program has proved highly successful. Typical of the participants' reaction is the enthusiasm of Nancy Oriol, 17, a senior at Philadelphia High School for Girls.

She finds that "having a superior who talks to you as an equal is a great feeling. You can disagree if you want to, and sometimes you're even right!"

The program grew out of Satinsky's Saturday laboratory volunteer project.

The pupils would come in Saturday mornings, help around the lab, and learn to assist Satinsky in his research projects at Hahnemann.

He decided to expand the program as a summer experience after conducting additional research projects and including formal classroom lectures.

"The Hahnemann faculty was very cooperative," Satinsky recalls. "The college council set up the curriculum and practically all the department heads participated in the lectures."

After completing two summers pupils have been exposed to every subject medical students have in four years, Satinsky said, and they are taught by the medical school professors themselves.

Dramatic Actress Finds Her New Skill as Soprano

NEW YORK (AP)—Lee Remick, best known for screen glamor drama roles, is on the musical comedy stage now—to her own surprise.

"I'd never even sung in the shower before," she says of her new found soprano skill. "It's a marvelous feeling to discover ability you didn't suspect."

The titian-tressed actress unveils the big sound in "Anyone Can Whistle," which is scheduled for a Broadway premiere March 26 at the Majestic Theater.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:
CLAY-RUSSELL: Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., says heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay will be subject to "harassment, humiliation and insults such as he has never experienced" because of his segregationist views.

Speaking to the Senate Friday Russell quoted from interviews with Clay in which the new champion said he wanted to associate with his own race, would not picket or engage in demonstrations and opposes integration of the races.

"He will pay for this," said Russell, leader of the Southern senators opposed to civil rights legislation. "He will need a higher degree of courage than when he climbed into the ring with (former champion Sonny) Liston."

BAKER: The Senate Rules Committee has received word

that Edward Levinson, Las Vegas, Nev., hotel and gambling casino operator, would get in touch with it Monday and probably would testify shortly afterwards.

U. S. marshals have been searching for Levinson and Benjamin Sigelbaum, Miami, Fla., real estate operator, in connection with the committee's probe of the activities of Robert G. Baker, ex-secretary to the Senate Democratic majority.

Levinson and Sigelbaum have been described as financial backers of the Serv-U Corp., a vending machine company in which Baker has been called a major but unlisted stockholder.

The committee is investigating whether Baker engaged in any conflict-of-interest deals while serving as secretary to Senate Democrats, a post he quit under fire Oct. 7.

ROWAN: Carl T. Rowan, called "a man of intelligence, courage and integrity" by President Johnson, has taken over as director of the U.S. Information Agency.

Rowan, former ambassador to Finland, was sworn in Friday to succeed the ailing Edward R. Murrow. Rowan's wife and two sons, President Johnson and a large group of officials and friends attended the ceremony.

Rowan is the highest-ranking Negro in the government and the first to sit in regularly on Cabinet meetings and also meetings of the National Security Council.

CONNALLY-KENNEDY: Texas Gov. John B. Connally, who was wounded when President John F. Kennedy was assassinated, paid his first visit to Kennedy's grave Friday.

TAX CUT: The Internal Revenue Service says employers should apply the new, reduced withholding rates to any paychecks due on or after March 5, even if the pay period covered by the check began before the new tax cut bill became law last Wednesday.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Saturday, Feb. 29, 1964. There are 306 days left in the year. Today is Leap Year day.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1704, the Massacre of Deerfield, Mass., took place. Under cover of night, more than 300 French and Indians from Canada surprised the New England garrison. Forty-seven persons were killed, the town was burned, and 120 were taken prisoner.

On this date: In 1526, the Scottish martyr of the Reformation, Patrick Hamilton, was burned at the stake.

In 1864, the U.S. Army revived the rank of lieutenant general.

Dear Abby: by Abigail Van Buren

Another Viewpoint!

DEAR ABBY: I am a high school teacher in Mount Vernon, Illinois. I read the following letter from your column aloud to my students, and asked them to write their own answers. I told them they didn't have to sign their names, and gave them five minutes in which to complete the assignment. These students are an average age of 16½. I am sending you their answers. Perhaps you would like to select the one you think is best for publication. Sincerely MRS. C. T. RACHELS

Your letter: DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old boy and I have been wanting to quit school for over a year, but my parents won't let me. I hate school and I want to get a job. I failed two subjects last term, and know I won't do any better next time. My parents found out I was smoking and they ordered me to stop it. I told them if they wouldn't let me quit school I wasn't going to quit smoking. My Dad made a deal with me: he said if I quit smoking and continued with school, he'd buy me a car I wanted. I said okay. He got me the car and I really have been trying harder at school, but he caught me smoking. Well, he took the car away from me and I'm grounded until June. They said if I flunk anything I'll have to go to summer school. How can I get my parents to be more human?"

"MAD"

DEAR MRS. RACHELS: So impressed was I with the "answers" of your students that I had difficulty selecting the best. But since I was compelled to select only one, here it is:

"DEAR MAD: I don't believe your parents could be any more 'human'. It is YOU who should get out of space and come back to earth. You probably think you know all the answers, but you will learn as time goes by that your high school education is the most important thing in your life. Listen to your parents and you will find that they have already traveled the long journey that you are just starting, and they know what they are talking about."

A JUNIOR

DEAR ABBY: There seems to be a campaign against "drop-outs" from high school. It isn't necessary for everybody to get a high school diploma to be a success in life, you know. I quit school after the ninth grade and I did all right. You probably won't print this, but if you do, sign me—

LOUISVILLE

DEAR LOUISVILLE: Congratulations! Perhaps you did all right in spite of the fact that you weren't graduated from high school. But you'll never know how much better you would have done if you had earned a high school diploma.

Decorative Accessories

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Soap and sequins are a new combination that have hobbyists in a lather of excitement.

The sequins are used to dress up the soap and turn it into a sparkling decoration, one that's practical or just plain pretty, as the case may be.

On the practical side, a cake

of soap makes a splendid pin cushion. Diaper pins, for example, that have become a bit dull will glide right through diapers with ease after they've been pulled out of a soap cushion. The soap makes pins slippery.

A cake of soap can also be used as a candle-holder.

Since soap is scented, however, sequin-trimmed cakes are most frequently used for sachets. They're also popular as decorative accessories that can be put on display in the bathroom.

Sequins aren't the only trimming hobbyists are applying to soap. Beads, too, are stuck into soap with straight pins to create designs or faces. Colorful pieces of felt or lace, gilt paper and pipe cleaners are employed, too.

A soap fish, for example, can be created by placing an oval bar of soap in the center of a 14-inch square of netting.

The netting is tied together at one end of the oval to make the tail of the fish. Sequins are added to make eyes, nose and a mouth. Colorful felt cutouts can be applied to create fins.

Nobody seems to know just how or where soap decorating started as a hobby, but it is definitely catching on, possibly because it's very simple and not very expensive.

It's one hobby that's never a loss, because even if you weary of soap and sequins you can always go back to the old combination—soap and water.

Discussion Presented on Fluoridation

Fluoridation was discussed by Dr. H. W. Fraas, who addressed the Pickaway County Registered and Graduate Nurses Association at a meeting held in the home of Mrs. Alice Camp, 535 Green Acre Court.

Mrs. Virginia Smith, president, conducted the business meeting. She read an invitation from the Circleville Business Women's Club to attend a "Project Hope" program they are sponsoring 8 p. m. Thursday in St. Philips Episcopal Parish House.

Dr. Fraas spoke on the pros and cons of fluoridation. He stated that the Pickaway County Dental Society hopes to have fluoridation of local drinking water in the near future. A question and answer session followed.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Wanda Matesky and Mrs. Mary Walters.

The Mar. 4 meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Fern Schwartz, 147 Watt St. Gerald Goeteman will show slides of Rome.

Plans Set For Spring Style Show

Plans for a style show were completed when members of Berger Hospital Guild No. 43 met in the guild room with Mrs. Eloise Ford, president, in charge of the session.

The show, "Spring Fashion Flare" will be held 8 p. m. Mar. 16 in the 4-H and Grange Building at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds. Members of the guild will model fashions from Sharitz's Women's Apparel, the Deb Shop and J. C. Penney Co.

Mrs. Carl Manson was welcomed as a new member.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ted Sims and Mrs. Kenneth Bensonhaver.

Daughters of Union Veterans Civil War, 1861-1865 will meet 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Irene Jenkins, and Miss Nellie Palm, 152 E. High St.

Your letter: DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old boy and I have been wanting to quit school for over a year, but my parents won't let me. I hate school and I want to get a job. I failed two subjects last term, and know I won't do any better next time. My parents found out I was smoking and they ordered me to stop it. I told them if they wouldn't let me quit school I wasn't going to quit smoking. My Dad made a deal with me: he said if I quit smoking and continued with school, he'd buy me a car I wanted. I said okay. He got me the car and I really have been trying harder at school, but he caught me smoking. Well, he took the car away from me and I'm grounded until June. They said if I flunk anything I'll have to go to summer school. How can I get my parents to be more human?"

DEAR MRS. RACHELS: So impressed was I with the "answers" of your students that I had difficulty selecting the best. But since I was compelled to select only one, here it is:

"DEAR MAD: I don't believe your parents could be any more 'human'. It is YOU who should get out of space and come back to earth. You probably think you know all the answers, but you will learn as time goes by that your high school education is the most important thing in your life. Listen to your parents and you will find that they have already traveled the long journey that you are just starting, and they know what they are talking about."

A JUNIOR

DEAR ABBY: There seems to be a campaign against "drop-outs" from high school. It isn't necessary for everybody to get a high school diploma to be a success in life, you know. I quit school after the ninth grade and I did all right. You probably won't print this, but if you do, sign me—

LOUISVILLE

DEAR LOUISVILLE: Congratulations! Perhaps you did all right in spite of the fact that you weren't graduated from high school. But you'll never know how much better you would have done if you had earned a high school diploma.

Decorative Accessories

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Soap and sequins are a new combination that have hobbyists in a lather of excitement.

The sequins are used to dress up the soap and turn it into a sparkling decoration, one that's practical or just plain pretty, as the case may be.

On the practical side, a cake

of soap makes a splendid pin cushion. Diaper pins, for example, that have become a bit dull will glide right through diapers with ease after they've been pulled out of a soap cushion. The soap makes pins slippery.

A cake of soap can also be used as a candle-holder.

Since soap is scented, however, sequin-trimmed cakes are most frequently used for sachets. They're also popular as decorative accessories that can be put on display in the bathroom.

Sequins aren't the only trimming hobbyists are applying to soap. Beads, too, are stuck into soap with straight pins to create designs or faces. Colorful pieces of felt or lace, gilt paper and pipe cleaners are employed, too.

A soap fish, for example, can be created by placing an oval bar of soap in the center of a 14-inch square of netting.

The netting is tied together at one end of the oval to make the tail of the fish. Sequins are added to make eyes, nose and a mouth. Colorful felt cutouts can be applied to create fins.

Nobody seems to know just how or where soap decorating started as a hobby, but it is definitely catching on, possibly because it's very simple and not very expensive.

It's one hobby that's never a loss, because even if you weary of soap and sequins you can always go back to the old combination—soap and water.

Discussion Presented on Fluoridation

Fluoridation was discussed by Dr. H. W. Fraas, who addressed the Pickaway County Registered and Graduate Nurses Association at a meeting held in the home of Mrs. Alice Camp, 535 Green Acre Court.

Dr. Fraas spoke on the pros and cons of fluoridation. He stated that the Pickaway County Dental Society hopes to have fluoridation of local drinking water in the near future. A question and answer session followed.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Wanda Matesky and Mrs. Mary Walters.

The Mar. 4 meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Fern Schwartz, 147 Watt St. Gerald Goeteman will show slides of Rome.

Plans Set For Spring Style Show

Plans for a style show were completed when members of Berger Hospital Guild No. 43 met in the guild room with Mrs. Eloise Ford, president, in charge of the session.

FORTNER REBOUNDS — Bill Fortner goes high in the air to tip a rebound back toward the basket last night, as the Teays Valley Vikings were dumped from the class AA tournament by the Central Pirates. Mitchell Clay (14) is the other Viking. Just behind Clay is George Trammell and the Pirate wearing jersey number 15 is Harold Winton. The two diminutive Central guards paced the win with a total of 52 points.

Vikings Dumped From Tournament By Central, 71-68

The Teays Valley Vikings were dumped from the Central District Class AA tournament last night, 71-68, by a hot shooting Central quintet.

The game was a thriller right down to the final buzzer. It was the first loss for the Vikings this year, in 18 starts.

The Central Pirates ineffective from the outside in the two previous tournament games in which they had played, got a total of 52 points from their two guards, George Trammell and Harold Winton.

Trammell hit ten field goals and four free throws for a total of 24 points while Winton connected on 14 field goals for 28 markers.

THEY WERE the only two Pirates to hit double figures. Ron and Don Bell, twin brothers who paced the Pirate win over Circleville, could do no better than a total of nine against the Vikings.

For Teays Valley, senior Bob Kuhlwein teamed with junior Bill Fortner, as each made 19 points for a total of 38.

Fortner, who kept the Vikings in the game near the end of the first half with eight consecutive points on six foul shots and a field goal, canned five from the field and nine at the charity stripe.

Kuhlwein hit eight field goals and three foul shots. Mitchell Clay and Dave Reese also hit double figures with Clay scoring 11 points on two field goals and seven charity tosses and Reese garnering 13 on six from the field and one at the Charity stripe.

The other two Vikings to see action were Mike Seymour with a two point tally and Doug Mallory, who scored four.

The Vikings matched the Columbus City League team point for point at the beginning of the first quarter, but slowed down as the game progressed.

AT THE end of the initial eight minutes of play, the Teays Valley cagers trailed, 21-15.

By halftime, they had closed the gap to 34-32, largely on Fortners eight point effort in the last three minutes of the second quarter.

Then for almost four minutes of the third period, it looked like the Vikings might blow the game wide open.

Fortner scored the first bucket of the period for the Vikings and then Dave Reese canned a pair of charity tosses that tied the game with the clock showing 7:22 to go in the tilt.

Kuhlwein and Clay added foul shots to give Teays Valley a two point lead. Fortner followed right up with a field goal, and Kuhlwein came back with a field goal and a charity toss.

And the Vikings were suddenly ahead, 44-37. But the lead was a short lived. Winton, almost single handed, put the Pirates back in the game as he brought the Central cagers back within one point, by scoring seven points while the Vikings scored one.

THEN TRAMMELL put the winners ahead with 2:52 to go in the quarter, and they never trailed again.

Teays Valley was down by 11 points with five minutes to remaining in the ball game, but they edged right back into the fray.

Trailing, they had to fight to gain possession of the ball in the fading seconds of the game. Consequently, they committed the fouls that helped the Pirates win the game.

In the last 30 seconds of the game, the Vikings committed three personal fouls, but the Pirates could capitalize on only one.

Although outscored from the field by eight points, the Vikings hit 20 of 27 foul shots to stay right in the game. Central could do no better than 15 of 30.

The Pirates play Grandview, 9:30 Tuesday night.

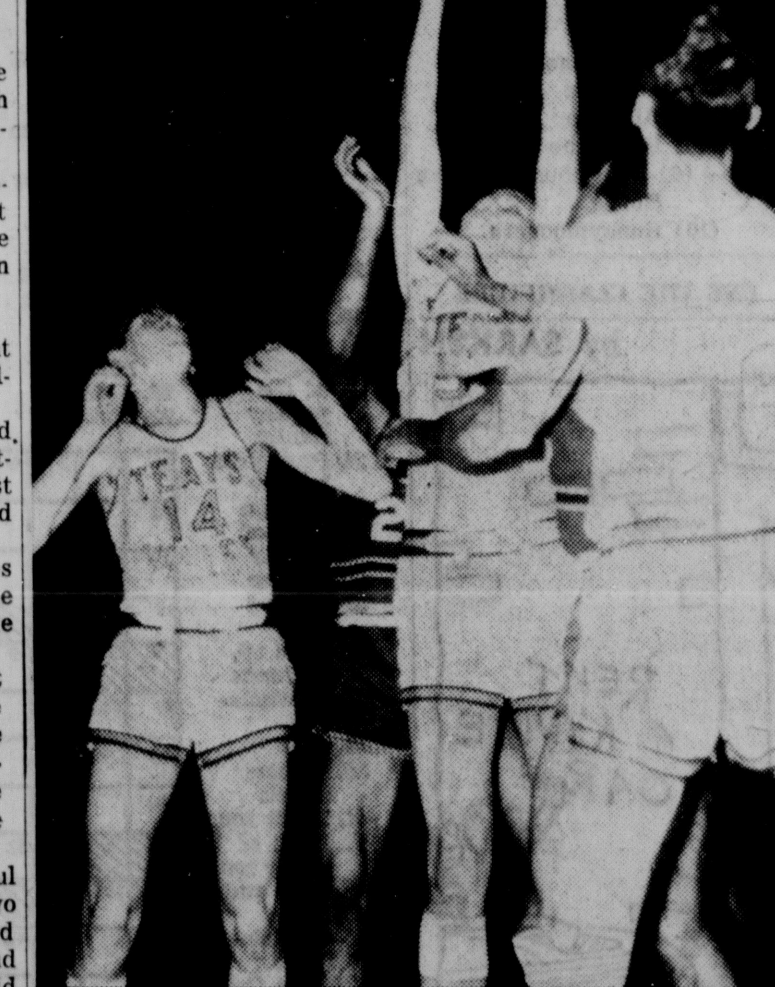

The defeat of the Vikings last night left Pickaway County with no entry in the class AA high school tournaments. Circleville High School had lost to the same team last Saturday.

Braves Defeated By Berne Union

The Logan Elm Braves staged a valiant comeback effort that fell short last night, as they lost to Berne Union, 62-57, in the upper bracket finals of the Teays Valley sectional tournament.

The Braves were down by as much as 16 points in the first half, getting off to a slow start against the Rockets from Fairfield County.

But the winners, after a ragged first four minutes of play, started connecting from the field at a pace the Braves could not match in that first half.

Jeff Lutz broke the scoring in the game, tallying a field goal with 5:25 to play in the first quarter. Red Groves came back with a field goal and a pair of foul shots and the Rockets never trailed from then on.

Wittenberg Hobbles to Tourney Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Injury-plagued Wittenberg, after its fifth straight Ohio Conference Basketball Tournament crown, hobbled to a 57-52 win over Capital Friday night to earn a spot in tonight's quarter-finals.

Tournament action was at three sites — Capital, Denison and Akron universities—and Akron, Baldwin-Wallace, Wooster, Otterbein, Marietta and Ohio Wesleyan, along with Wittenberg were winners. Mount Union drew a bye.

Wittenberg's star rebounder Bob Cherry sprained an ankle in a fall and missed nearly all the second half in the Tigers' narrow win. Al Thrasher rushed in to replace Cherry, but the Tigers still had to scramble.

Cherry is a doubtful starter for tonight, and little All-American Thrasher is playing with a barely healed leg injury.

In the second game at Capital, Marietta's Jack Marks scored 34 points as the Pioneers downed Muskingum 83-77.

Akron looked like the team to beat in the tourney's Northern Division as the Zips rolled over Oberlin 82-66. They held the Yeomen scoreless the first seven minutes.

Baldwin-Wallace came from behind and nipped Hiram 77-74, and Wooster defeated Heidelberg 77-65, in the other games at Akron.

Joe Lynch's long jump shot put B-W ahead of Hiram just 40 seconds before the end. Hiram center Ken Rowen scored 35 in a losing cause.

Wooster's Scots got 18 points apiece from Bill Gribble and Luke Hoffa in their win.

At Granville Otterbein whipped host Denison 69-52 and Ohio Wesleyan rapped Kenyon 86-61.

Otterbein's Don Carlos, top OC scorer during the regular season, was held to eight points, all free throws, but his teammates came through led by Tim Pond with 21 points.

Barry Clemens scored 23 in Wesleyan's easy win.

Tonight's tournament schedule pits Wooster against Baldwin-Wallace and Mount Union against Akron at Akron and Otterbein against Ohio Wesleyan at Capital.

In other Ohio college games Friday night Cedarville beat Spring Arbor (Mich.) 90-74; unbeaten Bethany (W.Va.) downed Western Reserve 95-75 and Case Tech beat Thiel 86-83.

Both Ohio entries bowed out in the first round of the Midwest Conference tourney in Nashville, Tenn. Kentucky State upset potent Central State 58-55 and Lincoln (Mo.) topped Wilberforce 81-69.

Braves Defeated By Berne Union

The Logan Elm Braves staged a valiant comeback effort that fell short last night, as they lost to Berne Union, 62-57, in the upper bracket finals of the Teays Valley sectional tournament.

The Braves were down by as much as 16 points in the first half, getting off to a slow start against the Rockets from Fairfield County.

But the winners, after a ragged first four minutes of play, started connecting from the field at a pace the Braves could not match in that first half.

Jeff Lutz broke the scoring in the game, tallying a field goal with 5:25 to play in the first quarter. Red Groves came back with a field goal and a pair of foul shots and the Rockets never trailed from then on.

Wittenberg Hobbles to Tourney Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Injury-plagued Wittenberg, after its fifth straight Ohio Conference Basketball Tournament crown, hobbled to a 57-52 win over Capital Friday night to earn a spot in tonight's quarter-finals.

Tournament action was at three sites — Capital, Denison and Akron universities—and Akron, Baldwin-Wallace, Wooster, Otterbein, Marietta and Ohio Wesleyan, along with Wittenberg were winners. Mount Union drew a bye.

Wittenberg's star rebounder Bob Cherry sprained an ankle in a fall and missed nearly all the second half in the Tigers' narrow win. Al Thrasher rushed in to replace Cherry, but the Tigers still had to scramble.

Cherry is a doubtful starter for tonight, and little All-American Thrasher is playing with a barely healed leg injury.

In the second game at Capital, Marietta's Jack Marks scored 34 points as the Panthers downed Muskingum 83-77.

Akron looked like the team to beat in the tourney's Northern Division as the Zips rolled over Oberlin 82-66. They held the Yeomen scoreless the first seven minutes.

Baldwin-Wallace came from behind and nipped Hiram 77-74, and Wooster defeated Heidelberg 77-65, in the other games at Akron.

Joe Lynch's long jump shot put B-W ahead of Hiram just 40 seconds before the end. Hiram center Ken Rowen scored 35 in a losing cause.

Wooster's Scots got 18 points apiece from Bill Gribble and Luke Hoffa in their win.

At Granville Otterbein whipped host Denison 69-52 and Ohio Wesleyan rapped Kenyon 86-61.

Otterbein's Don Carlos, top OC scorer during the regular season, was held to eight points, all free throws, but his teammates came through led by Tim Pond with 21 points.

Barry Clemens scored 23 in Wesleyan's easy win.

Tonight's tournament schedule pits Wooster against Baldwin-Wallace and Mount Union against Akron at Akron and Otterbein against Ohio Wesleyan at Capital.

In other Ohio college games Friday night Cedarville beat Spring Arbor (Mich.) 90-74; unbeaten Bethany (W.Va.) downed Western Reserve 95-75 and Case Tech beat Thiel 86-83.

Both Ohio entries bowed out in the first round of the Midwest Conference tourney in Nashville, Tenn. Kentucky State upset potent Central State 58-55 and Lincoln (Mo.) topped Wilberforce 81-69.

AT THE end of the first period, the score was 15-5 and with less than two minutes to go before halftime they were on top, 30-14 — the biggest lead in the game.

By the intermission, Logan Elm had closed the gap to 32-20.

The second half started as though it might be a repeat of the first half, and as the third period drew to a close the Braves were again down by 16 points, 46-30.

At this point they started to rally.

In the final period, which started with the score at 48-37, the Braves came up with a total of 20 markers while the winners were scoring 14. But the effort was not enough.

The Rockets, playing by far their best game in the sectional tournament, move into the district Wednesday.

REBOUNDING hurt the Braves in the first quarter. They could grab only one while the Rockets pulled down seven.

For the remainder of the game, Logan Elm could get up on the boards with the bigger foes. Each team had a total of 29 rebounds at the game's end. But the Braves could not match Berne Union's torrid shooting from the field.

For the game, the Rockets connected on 23 of 44 attempts from the field for a 52 per cent average — good enough to beat most teams.

Logan Elm could hit no more than 23 of 61 from the field — 37 per cent. In the turnover department the teams again seemed evenly matched, with both committing 16 errors in the game.

Jeff Lutz paced all scorers, connecting on ten field goals for a total of 20 points. Darryl Reichelderfer scored ten on four field goals and two charity tosses and Rick Shaw hit 13 points on five field goals and three charity shots.

Ken Staten and Mac McGrew teamed up for the winners with 13 points apiece. Steve Couch hit ten and Red Groves added 11 as four of the starters hit the double figure column in the game.

SENIORS on the Logan Elm team are Art Murray, Gary Hardman and Arnie Gabriel. Reichelderfer is a sophomore and Lutz and Shaw are juniors.

The Braves were the defending champions in the sectional tournament.

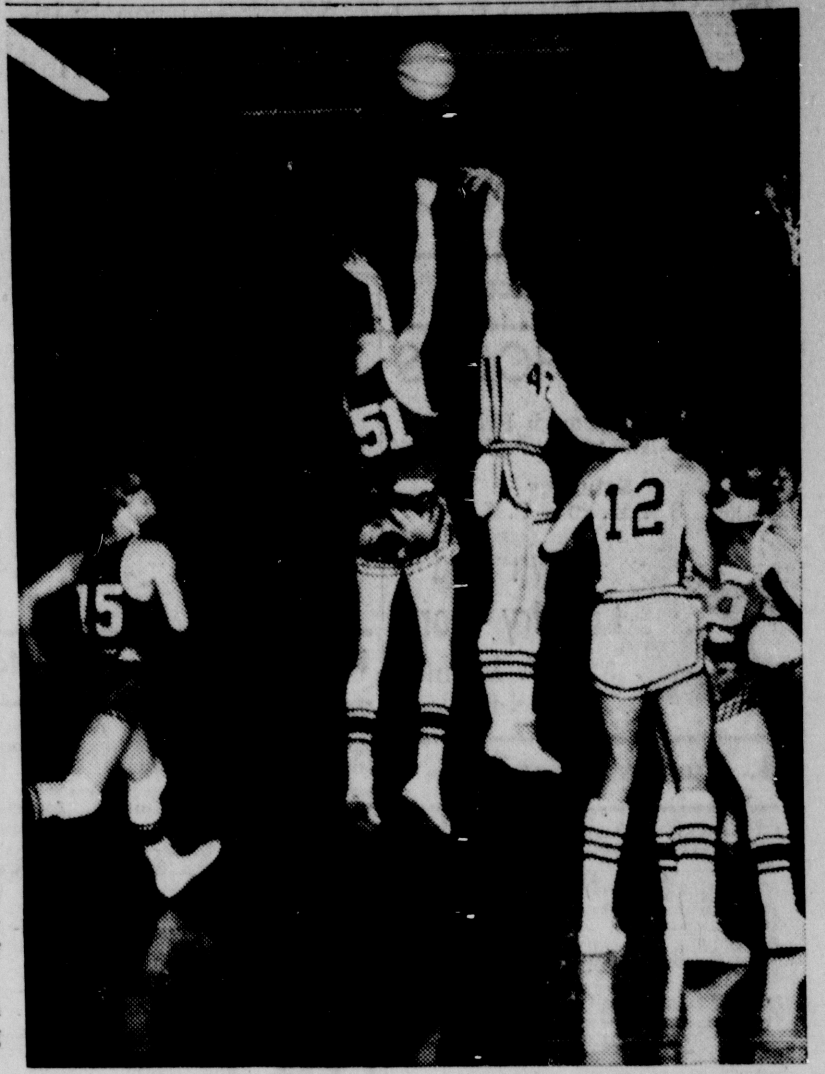

The lone Pickaway County team, either class A or AA, remaining in the tournament is Williamsport.

The Deers are scheduled to meet Lancaster Bishop Fenwick tonight in a battle to determine the winner of the lower bracket of the Teays Valley sectional.

REICHELDERFER UP — Darryl Reichelderfer goes high in the air for a shot, only to have it blocked by Mac McGrew, Berne Union's big center. Gary Hardman (15) moves in from the left, and Keith Miller of Berne Union watches the shot.

LUTZ DRIVES — Jeff Lutz (13) makes a futile drive toward the basket for Logan Elm at the Teays Valley sectional tournament. The Braves, defending co-champions of the sectional, were defeated by Berne Union. Turning to watch Lutz is Arnie Gabriel of Logan Elm, while big Mac McGrew moves in to grab a rebound.

Marietta Oarsmen Set For Rowing Campaign

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) —
Spring is just around the bend in the river for Marietta College's crewmen.

While other collegiate squads are winding up basketball chores and getting ready for baseball and track, the Pioneers are churning the Muskingum and Ohio rivers into a froth in anticipation of another great rowing campaign.

A year ago the Ohio Valley oarsmen won the national championship of small college rowing the Dad Vail Regatta—by defeating defending champion
Georgetown, Amherst, Wayne
State, St. Joseph and Drexel in the finals.

But back of that triumph was quite a story. A story in which new and glowing chapters are still to be written.

Back in 1959, a grade school math teacher who had never coached a day in his life took over as mentor of the Pioneers, who had compiled a record of two victories and 14 losses in

5 Circleville Wrestlers Move Up in Tourney

The Circleville High School wrestling team moved five grapplers into the semi finals of the sectional tournament at Whitehall, scheduled this afternoon.

Circleville's Craig Benzenberg pinned Reese Lattimer of Bexley in 3:28 in the 103-pound division to move into this afternoon's competition.

Charles Martin, CHS 120-pounder, edged Gregg Robbins of Bexley, 4-3, to earn a shot at Berry of Whitehall. In a previous match between the Whitehall grappler and Martin, Berry won a 2-1 decision.

In the 133-pound class, Tom McDonald pinned Ron Rock of Groveport in 3:56 and will meet Farback of Upper Arlington this afternoon.

BILL DIEHL decided Bill Norris of Whitehall, 10-3 and will face Saunders of Upper Arlington today.

Joe List won a 4-1 decision from Don Goldberg of East-moor in a preliminary bout and then lost to undefeated Tom Saunders of upper Arlington by a pin in 3:25.

Howard Fletcher pinned Morgan of Hamilton Twp. in a fast 32 seconds in the heavyweight division to move on to today's semifinal action.

Today's winners will wrestle in the district tournament, also scheduled at Whitehall. Tiger wrestling mentor reported the tournament was still in progress at 1:30 a. m. today.

Cyprus Crisis Appears To Grow Hotter

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. Security Council members readied a call for an international peace force for embattled Cyprus today as Greece warned Turkey that military intervention would mean war.

Five nonpermanent members of the 11-nation council planned to submit the peace-force plea to U.N. officials this afternoon so it can be put before a council meeting Monday in an effort to settle the growing crisis.

The resolution of Bolivia, Brazil, Morocco, Norway and the Ivory Coast also calls for a mediator to attack the heart of the emergency — the bitter communal strife among Greek and Turkish Cypriots that has heightened tension between their mother countries.

Informants in Athens said Friday the Greek government had put its military forces on a tightened alert and warned of retaliation if Turkey carries out a threat to invade the east Mediterranean island to protect the lives and rights of the Turkish Cypriot minority.

Government sources said Foreign Minister Stavros Costopoulos had called in Turkish Ambassador Nedim Ilkin during the day to relay the warning that Greece would oppose unilateral armed action that would endanger Greek Cypriot lives.

Costopoulos' words constituted "a friendly warning, not a threat," the sources said, but added that Greece was taking no chances of being caught off guard and had alerted its troops to an advanced state of readiness.

Premier George Papandreu also suggested Turkish military intervention would mean war when he said Friday "If Turkey enters the door of the insane asylum, Greece will be forced to follow suit," he said.

In Ankara, Turkish Prime Minister Ismet Inonu summoned his top assistants and foreign-policy advisers as well as Ambassadors Raymond A. Hare of the United States and Sir Dennis Allen of Britain to discuss the Mediterranean crisis.

son's prepared announcements was whether Johnson would confirm reports that special security measures were taken during his Florida trip because of a warning that there might be an attempt by a suicide pilot to ram his plane.

"I don't handle my own security," Johnson replied. He said he was informed there were reasons for taking additional precautions and he directed that the matter be handled by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and the Secret Service. He said their suggestions were followed and he was not familiar with the details.

The full-dress session with newsmen, with the nation looking on, marked completion of Johnson's first 100 days in office, and the chief executive was asked how he sized up the period.

Johnson said he has been reasonably close to the presidency for 30 years but "I've got many different impressions the last 30 days than I had before I came to this awesome responsibility."

He said he was deeply impressed by how people closed ranks and were anxious to unite the country after the "tragic affair of last November" when President John F. Kennedy's assassination catapulted him into the White House.

Johnson said he is impressed by the way the top officials of the government have carried on. He said he is pleased with what Congress has done, passing 10 of 15 appropriations bills carried over from last year, passing an education bill, putting the civil rights bill through the House and completing action on the tax bill.

He said he has been lavishly praised and criticized but thinks the American nation was conducted itself well in a crisis. He said in the first 100 days "men and women of good will" worked together.

Cyprus Crisis Appears To Grow Hotter

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. Security Council members readied a call for an international peace force for embattled Cyprus today as Greece warned Turkey that military intervention would mean war.

Five nonpermanent members of the 11-nation council planned to submit the peace-force plea to U.N. officials this afternoon so it can be put before a council meeting Monday in an effort to settle the growing crisis.

The resolution of Bolivia, Brazil, Morocco, Norway and the Ivory Coast also calls for a mediator to attack the heart of the emergency — the bitter communal strife among Greek and Turkish Cypriots that has heightened tension between their mother countries.

Informants in Athens said Friday the Greek government had put its military forces on a tightened alert and warned of retaliation if Turkey carries out a threat to invade the east Mediterranean island to protect the lives and rights of the Turkish Cypriot minority.

Government sources said Foreign Minister Stavros Costopoulos had called in Turkish Ambassador Nedim Ilkin during the day to relay the warning that Greece would oppose unilateral armed action that would endanger Greek Cypriot lives.
